Voters will decide bond issue to fund bussing, school improvements by Dan Sanderson

Staff Writer

While going to the presidentialprimary polls next Tuesday, voters in the Crawford AuSable School District will be asked to decide on a bond issue that would fund bussing and school facility improvements.

The 2012 bus and facility bond will be on the ballot on Tuesday, Feb. 28. Michigan's presidentialprimary also will be held at the polls, but Crawford AuSable School District area citizens do not have to be registered as a democrat or republican to be able to be eligible to vote on the school funding proposal, said Crawford AuSable Schools Superintendent Joe Powers.

The school district is proposing to borrow $2,990,000 through bonds issued in order to buy busses and make improvements at all school buildings.

The specific ballot language reads, "Shall Crawford AuSable School District, Crawford, Otsego and Kalkaska Counties, Michigan, borrow the sum of not to exceed Two Million Nine Hundred Ninety Thousand Dollars ($2,990,000) and issue its general obligation unlimited tax bonds therefor, for the purpose of: purchasing school buses; acquiring, installing, and equipping educational technology for, and related remodeling to, Grayling Elementary-AuSable Primary building, Grayling Middle School and Grayling High School; erecting, furnishing and equipping additions to, and partially remodeling, furnishing and refurnishing, equipping and reequipping the Grayling Elementary-AuSable Primary building; and developing and improving sites?"

Planned VA clinic will be open in Grayling this fall

by Dan Sanderson Staff Writer

A Veterans Affairs (VA) clinic will open in Grayling by Oct. 1, but will focus more on the use of technology rather than faceto-face time with medical staff.

Rep. Dr. Dan Benishek, (R-Crystal Falls), was at the American Legion Post #106 on Monday to discuss the planned clinic that will serve Crawford County residents and veterans from the surrounding

In the spring of 2011, the VA advertised for bids for property and a 9,000 square foot building for a Community Based Access Clinic. The clinic would have housed an audiology department.

Since then, the VA has scaled plans back. The planned clinic seeks a 3,500 square foot building. It will staff a registered nurse and a licensed nurse practitioner. Veterans will be able to communicate with medical experts via teleconferencing.

Benishek said he and his staff were not aware why plans were changed for the clin-

"It's got to be an improvement to what has been here, and this process of having these county-based clinics is much better than having to go to Saginaw," Benishek Benishek said the idea for the clinic was to cut down on travel time for veterans.

"You may still have to travel for more specific specialty care, but perhaps once you've had that initial consultation, you'll be able to talk to that same guy you've met in Grayling rather than go back," Benishek said. "I'm thinking that will be an improvement for Crawford County veterans, but we'll have to see as time goes by."

The clinic will be housed in a leased building rather than building a new facility. "Since there are so many empty buildings here, they want to fill some of that empty space," said Denise Pallarito, a constituent

County approves roof replacement

by Dan Sanderson Staff Writer

Crawford County officials are going for more bang for the buck as far as a thicker roof and longer warranty for the Crawford County Courthouse.

The Crawford County Board of Commissioners, at its ways and means meeting earlier this month, approved a bid of $146,130 to replace the roof on the Crawford County Courthouse.

The roof will be replaced with a .060 thermoplastic polyolefin (TPO) single-ply roofing membrane, which is .060 inches thick.

Great Lakes Roofing and Insulation System, Inc. which is based in Sault Ste. Marie, but has branch locations in Grayling and Kalkaksa, was awarded the bid to replace the roof.

Initially, Great Lakes Roofing proposed to place a .045 mill roof, which is .045 inches thick. That roof came with a 15-year warranty.

After doing research and negotiations with the company, Crawford County Administrator Paul Compo said the county could get a thicker roof and a 20-year warranty by paying an additional $6,740.

The last time the roof was replaced was in the mid-1990s.

The roof for the Crawford County Courthouse, the Crawford County Jail and Crawford County carport will be replaced.

The roof will replace a ballast roof, which was covered with gravel.

"It's like anything else, 15 to 20 years later, the materials are better and the technology is better," Compo said. "Either way, we have to protect our assets."

The county will install walk pads used where the heating, ventilation and air conditioning units on the building are maintained.

"We're going to be up there quite a bit because we're pushing 15 years with the equipment we have right now," Compo said.

Brad Robinson, the maintenance director Crawford County, will replace any damaged insulation as the project is being completed. A symmetry. Still Compo said that the county would pay for the roof replacement in one pay-

Just over a third of the funds will be paid through the county's courthouse preservation fund. The fund is built up by fees tacked onto traffic tickets for the purpose of maintaining the courthouse building.

Compo said there is currently $58,500 in the courthouse preservation fund. The remaining funds will come from the county's general fund, and will be recouped once the courthouse preservation fund is replenished.

"We haven't touched the courthouse preservation fund and allowed it to build up because we knew that we needed to replace the roof," Compo said.

Local jury convicts stolen gun traffickers

by Dan Sanderson

Staff Writer A Crawford County jury found two men guilty for their involvement in stealing guns from area homes and cabins and trading them for drugs with Detroit gangs.

After a four day trial in Crawford County Circuit Court, a jury convicted Michael Joseph Beaver, 32, of Melvindale, for one count of home invasion firstdegree, two counts of larceny of firearms and one count of possession of a firearm by a felon.

Beaver's trial was consolidated with co-defendant,

Damon Dee Pamame, 40 of Mio, who was convicted of two counts of receiving and concealing stolen firearms and two counts of possession of a firearm by a felon.

Crawford County Prosecutor Everette Ayers said the case involved a home invasion, which occurred around Feb. 2, 2010. Numerous items were stolen from the residence, including firearms, tools and a safe. The crime was solved when Crawford County Sheriff's Deputy Jason Alexander recovered a cigarette butt left at the scene. The cigarette butt was sent to the Michigan State Police Crime Lab. DNA obtained from the cigarette butt showed a match to Ryan Michael Plaga, 31 of Houghton Lake, who was later arrested. Plaga pled guilty to weapons-firearmspossession, weaponsfirearms-felony, felony and Pamame, last week. Testimony at the trial revealed that the guns stolen by the men were transported to Detroit, where they were exchanged for drugs with gang members.

A woman who testified as a defense witness was arrested, outside the courtroom after giving her testimony, for receiving and concealing stolen property.

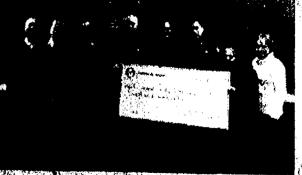

46th Trial Court Judge Dennis F. Murphy revoked the bonds for Beaver and Pamame, who are also in the Crawford County Jail awaiting sentencing.

Beaver faces up to 30 years in prison, while Pamame faces up to 15 years behind bars.

Just outside of the new offices, 75 to 80 parking spaces would be created where the former bus loop was located.

Powers said that parking is one of the top complaints schools officials field regarding the schools, especially for events such as graduations, concerts and the science fair.

The bond would also pay to convert the Grayling Elementary School and AuSable Primary School cafeteria into what is being called the Crawford AuSable Performance Arena. The renovated facilities would provide a stage and room for band and music students. The stage would also be used for performances, science fairs, music concerts and other events. The space would also serve as a full-size multipurpose gymnasium with a rubber floor and would provide a large area for all elementary students.

The Grayling Elementary School's annual science fair was held last week.

"It was standing room only and people had to be out in the hall," Powers said. "That will be nice to have a full-size area where parents will actually be able to come in and see their children."

Boilers at the AuSable Primary School would also be replaced if the bond is approved. Powers said the boilers were projected to last 15 years, and are now entering there 19th year of service.

Replacing the boilers is estimated to cost $200,000, but the school district will save $25,000 per year in decreased utility costs through enhanced technolo-

"It's not only the pay off, but we wouldn't have to eliminate more jobs to pay for the boilers." Powers said.

Over the last decade, the Crawford AuSable School District has eliminated 89 jobs as school officials have been forced to slash $7.5 million for its budget.

A total 67 percent of the positions were cut from the district's administrative staff, while central office staff has been slashed by 29 percent.

The Crawford AuSable School Board has focused on keeping teachers in front of students during the last 10 years of economic woes.

"The whole purpose of the bond is to reduce expenses so we can keep our teachers and that is our number one priority," Powers said. "We want to try to focus everything on our classrooms because it's Powers said the Crawford AuSable School District is the 13th largest school district in the state, covering 520 square miles, and parents count on bussing to safely get their children to and from school.

"The board took a look at our transportation and they do not feel like they can eliminate bussing," Powers said. "It's very important for students and our parents to continue to provide bussing. We put a lot of miles on our busses."

For the 2011-12 school year, the school district received $1.2 million less from the state in school funding. School officials are anticipating a similar reduction this year, Powers said.

If voters give the bond issue a thumbs up, that would mean the district could keep providing up-todate technology for stu-

"We're got to prepare students for their world and their world revolves around technology," Powers said.

If passed, the school district's debt levy would increase from 4.9 mills up to 5.2 mills. The increase would mean that a homeowner, with a $100,000 house with state equalized value of $50,000, would pay an additional $15 in taxes per year for the next four year. The bond would then drop down to 4.2 mills for debt previously approved to renovate and expand the Grayling High School.

Planned VA clinic will be open in Grayling this fall

About 20 people attended the question and answer session with Benishek Monday.

Charlotte Fairbotham, whose husband, William Fairbotham, served tours of Iraq duty in Afghanistan, said getting the clinic in the community is critical.

"It isn't where it's going to be," she said. "It's we need it."

Katie Tinker, whose husband Dana Metheney is a U.S. Army veteran, said getting the clinic open and employed with local people were concerns that she had.

"Veterans are near and dear to my heart," Tinker said. "Generations of our family have served."

Fairbotham agreed that veterans would be more at ease with familiar faces.

"I've been here all of my life, and they need somebody who they are comfortable with," she said.

While some citizens were frustrated that a larger facility is not coming to Grayling, they were encouraged to wait until the clinic is up and running before making a final decision.

"I don't think it's an end because it's easier to go from a smaller facility to a larger facility and you don't have to lay people off," said Douglas W. Robinson, a veteran's employee representative for the veterans service division of the Workforce Development Agency.

Steven Leusby, an Air Force veteran from Higgins

Lake who goes to the VA clinic in Gaylord, vowed to become more involved in finding more information about the clinic and how it will operate.

"We need to know who controls the purse strings," he said. "Once we get educated, we will be fine. I'm happy that we have something coming."

Benishek was headed to the Detroit regional office for the VA, to investigate why there is a backlog in veteran's claims.

"It's not pretty," he said. Benishek encouraged veterans to provide their input on the clinic and seek their assistance when filing claims for benefits.

"To do a claim on your own is just impossible," Benishek said.

Issues and Opinions

A little of this, a little of that

TIME ONCE MORE to take one of our infrequent strolls, barefoot among the potpourri ...

PRESIDENTS WEEK – One of the important items I learned about American presidents during their special week is that President Jefferson is credited with introducing that old standby meal, macaroni and cheese, to the American diet.

Another is that George Washington, usually cited as the father of our nation, also is considered to be America's richest presi-

According to a news item I read recently, George Washington owned nearly 60,000 acres and more than 300 slaves, which in today's dollars would be worth about $525 million.

The same article claimed that if Mitt Romney is elected president, his wealth likely would rank him in the top four, based on his disclosure of net worth somewhere between $190 million and $250 million.

Other wealthy presidents included Thomas Jefferson, Herbert Hoover and John F. Kennedy, although Mr. Jefferson died in

by Richard Milliman

Less wealthy presidents listed included Abraham Lincoln, James Buchanan, Ulysses S. Grant and Harry S Truman.

President Barack Obama was listed as worth $2.2 million to $7.5 million, amounts to be reckoned with but not at the top of the heap.

Nowadays presidents who aren't rich when they enter office are when they leave. That seems to go for many members of Congress, FLAG BURNING - I'll have to admit some sympathy with the actions of a Kent County man, who was upset by the order of New Jersey Gov. Chris Christie to fly the New Jersey state flag at half staff in honor of the late Whitney Houston.

John Burri of Wyoming, whose son, Army Spc. Eric Burri, died in Iraq in 2005, located a flag store, paid $12.95 for a New Jersey state flag, took it home and burned it on his outdoor grill as his own personal protest.

The ceremony of lowering flags should be reserved for those who gave their lives for their country, John Burri figured.

"It was a slap in the face. It cheapens the meaning of lowering that flag. They're watering down the meaning of a hero," he said, as reported in The Detroit News.

1 agree. Whitney Houston may have been a very talented entertainer, and New Jersey Gov. Christie considered her a "cultural icon" and source of pride for New Jersey, but honoring her with a ritual usually and properly reserved for fallen military heroes is a bit

John Burri's response may be a bit dramatic, but he has it right.

DOCTOR'S ORDER - One way to lift your spirits if you're feeling down in the dumps or even a little blue is to dig into some chocolate.

That's the prescription cited in a publication called The Doctors Book of Healing Foods.

Chocolate is a wonderful mood booster, and among a number of delicious foods that give the brain the nutrients needed to be happy, according to the Doctors Book, which adds: "Deny yourself these essential nutrients and you could well be bringing on the blues."

So we all can use this rationalization: I really didn't want that Snickers bar but the doctor said it would make me feel better.

It works for me.

RIGHT TO WORK - Michigan is undergoing a lot of discussion about a right-to-work law which will get hotter if and when official consideration gets serious in the Michigan Legislature.

A key question is whether labor contracts can require workers to pay union dues even if they don't want to join the union or even voted against it.

Indiana is the latest state to enact the right-to-work law. Consideration in Michigan is inevitable, sooner or later. A summary paragraph in a recent Detroit Free Press story on the new Indiana law reads like this: "Supporters say right-to-work attract employers. helps Opponents say it leads to lower wages and poorer quality jobs."

Both probably are right.

CLOSURE - One concluding thought:

As income tax time approaches, have you ever noticed that when you put the two words "The" and "IRS" together, it spells THEIRS? # # #

CASD maintains competitive edge

To the editor:

The Crawford AuSable School District is recognized by the Michigan Department Education (MDE) as a high-performing district. CASD schools that tested in the Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP) last year received "Best of Class" grades, meaning that their test scores were above the state average and have exceeded expectations as compared to similar schools. In addition, Grayling High School was named one of the best high schools in the United States by U.S. News & World Report and Newsweek magazines in 2010 one of only 75 Michigan high schools to receive that honor. There are several factors contributing to this success. First, the high school has a rewards programs, called the Grayling Viking Renaissance program, sponsored by the Jostens Renaissance Program, which recognizes students for their grades and their behavior in school through incentives such as free passes to all sporting events and performance arts events to engage students in their high school experience. This has affected culture. Students are eligible based on their grade point average, behavior, and improvement in grade point average. According to Grayling High principal School Donna Boughner, when the program first started, 49 percent of the student body was part of the program. Now, that percentage has risen to 75 percent. Students become eligible for the program with a minimum GPA of 2.0 and a record of a rising GPA. They remain in the program if their grades continue to improve, and have good attendance and if they do not have any incidents of poor behavior. Ms. Boughner said that she has noticed that students are increasingly concerned about getting referrals as they would not want a referral to affect their standing in the program. The program is sustained in part because of the support it has received from Grayling-area

businesses, parents, school board members, and other community.

members. In fact, officials from other school districts have visited Grayling High School in order to learn about the success of its Renaissance program so that they can replicate it. Grayling High School now has one of the top five Renaissance programs in the state and is used as a national model.

Second, the high percentage of students rewarded through the Renaissance Program would not have been possible without the dedicated staff. According to Ms. Boughner, teachers are willing to do anything to help students and are always available which she calls part of the culture at the high school. Teachers are willing to help both on an informal basis and through some of the programs the school has, such as the Freshman Five Initiative. With this initiative, each teacher is assigned five students with whom they become mentors for to help ensure that no one slips through the cracks. Therefore, those teachers can help students with personal and academic problems as they arise. Ensuring students are successful in their freshman year is particularly important as research has shown that students who fail just two of their core classes in their freshman year are highly likely to drop out of school. Therefore, catching problems as early as possible in students high school careers helps ensure their later academic success and eventual graduation. Third, Grayling High School is using a variety of technology initiatives to provide the staff with more options on how to give and prepare lessons, which will in turn help students become more tech-savvy. Teachers are assisted in part by a staff member who is a specialist in classroom technology integration, so that teachers can integrate technology like using mobile devices and applications like Google does in their teaching. Ms. Boughner is conducting a pilot program to use IPads as a way for teachers to use different media to plan and carry out their lessons. Ms. Boughner said that depending on the success of the pilot program, more teachers may soon be using TPads for their lessons and would eventually like them to be available to all students. Ms. Boughner has used funds from a state technology grant to experiment with having teachers record their lessons then they can send them home, which will provide students with more learning opportunities. Students can review lessons repeatedly if they

Fourth, teachers also have formal times to work together through their professional learning communities. They are grouped with colleagues to discuss pedagogical and studentrelated issues on a weekly basis along with daily analysis to drive decision making. These communities have facilitated teachers collaboration by enabling them to work together and learn together with colleagues in other disciplines and grades. Each community is charged with 10 students considered at risk, but who are not in special education. By tracking their grades, meeting with them regularly, and reviewing their homework with them, students have another support system available to them after their freshman year to extend their Freshman Five experience.

Fifth, it has also become easier to pinpoint which students are struggling in particular areas through the district's increased use of data. Ms. Boughner credits Joe Powers, the superintendent, who began a collaboration with the Northwest Evaluation Association to test all students on a national standardized test in order to diagnose their specific academic needs. Since working with the Northwest Evaluation Association, the entire district has greatly improved its ability to use data. There is even a data manager to help teachers.

"Our district has shown significant student achievement over the last five years. Our district's improvement is based on the teamwork of students, parents, and staff all working toward stusuccess," Superintendent Joe Powers.

To the editor:

Pastor Pat Robbins came to Grayling last July to his new charge as pastor of Michelson Memorial United Methodist Church with his lovely wife, Karen. Pulling up stakes in the Caro area after serving many years there, Pastor Pat and Karen felt blessed to be in the pristine northern air of northern Michigan. Grayling and Michelson Church welcomed them with open arms.

Perhaps you've met or seen him around town with his bigger than life stature, full beard and maybe even his pink suit with shoes to match. Or maybe you've noticed his big white pickup truck with a magnetized fish on the door. Yes, he's an avid fish-

While shopping at Glen's last Friday, Feb. 17, evidently someone thought they needed that 20 year possession of Pastor Pat's more than he did and stole the fish off the door. To add insult to injury, Pastor Pat had just lost a fishing buddy the day before so it really wasn't his week for good luck. Welcome to Grayling, Pastor Pat! Whoever "borrowed" the fish will only have God to answer to.

Do the right thing ... return the magnetized fish to the church on Michigan Ave., no questions asked. His whole congregation will be watching for that fish! We love you, Pastor Pat!

Existing bond should be paid off before additional bond is considered

To the editor:

In their brochure promoting the CASD bond millage, Superintendent Joe Powers states that "CASD schools are the second largest employer in Crawford County." CASD is not an employer, the Crawford County taxpayer is the employer. In fact if you include the county and township governments and Kirtland Community College, the taxpayer is the largest employer in the county.

The real employers of Crawford County should vote No on the bus and facility millage bond question on Tuesday, Feb. 28. The existing bond debt should be paid off before an additional bond is considered. Isn't paying off debt what it's all about these days?

United Way to host Community Conversation on education

Crawford County United Way will host "The Future of Education" Community Conversation early next month, giving parents, students, employers and educators an opportunity to lend their voices to the future of education in Michigan.

Over the next year, The Center for Michigan will hold conversations in communities across the state from Port Huron to the Upper Peninsula to Benton Harbor. The Center aims to ensure that Community Conversation participants fully represent all of Michigan, including those in lower income levels and rural communities.

The Center for Michigan, a nonprofit, nonpartisan "think-and-do" tank, was formed to cure Michigan's unhealthy hyper-partisan political culture and reinvigorate the state's broken policy apparatus by calling forth a bottom-up, common ground citizen's agenda for Michigan's transformation. The Center strives to be the state's "Citizenship Company."

The Center never endorses political parties or candidates for office. Instead, it seeks to frame public issues with public input and outline for public leaders what the public wants. Its work is supported by many of Michigan's leading foundations, businesses and individuals.

Community Conversations are one of The Center's leading "products." Since 2007, The 1, by calling Crawford Center has gathered more than 10,500 people in community conversations across the state. The "Michigan's Defining Moment" public campaign engagement resulted in a citizen's agenda taken up by political candidates of both major political parties, and was the subject of televised political debates in 2010, including the only gubernatorial debate.

Candidates for governor and the legislature seek out these public reports because they want to know what you're thinking and what your priorities are for the state's future. Elected officials have acted on concerns growing out of these conversations, including making changes in state law to address these issues.

In 2012, The Center will hold up to 250 Community Conversations solely focused on the future of education and student learning. It is committed to accurately representing the diverse views we hear across the state from students, parents, job providers, educators, and other community members.

The Center aims to engage thousands of people across Michigan in these discussions in hopes of ensuring that the perspectives of Michigan residents on education are fully considered in the 2012 elections and by the newly elected state legislators once they reach Lansing in January 2013.

The Bible Speaks

Christ Pleased Not Self

Romans 15:1 taught us to bear the burdens of the weak and not to please ourselves. "IWe then that are strong ought to bear the infirmities of the weak, and not to please ourselves." Romans 15:2 taught us to please our neighbor by building him up for his good. "2Let every one of us please his neighbour for his good to edification." Romans 15:3, illustrates these truths by the supreme example of our Lord Jesus Christ: "3For even Christ pleased not himself; but, as it is written, The reproaches of them that reproached thee fell on me."

First "Christ pleased not himself," but His heavenly Father in all things. He said in John 5:20: "30I can of mine own self do nothing: as I hear, I judge: and my judgment is just; because I seek not mine own will, but the will of the Father which hath sent me." He said in John 6:38: "38For I came down from heaven, not to do mine own will, but the will of him that sent me." He said in John 8:29: "29And he that sent me is with me: the Father hath not left me alone; for I do always those things that please him." Jesus reminded us His example included us in John 15:10: "10lf ye keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love; even as I have kept my Father's commandments, and abide in his love."

Second, Christ preached the Holy Scriptures: "....but, as it is written...." I counted 20 times Jesus used the phrase, "It is written." Also the phrase "have ye not read" was repeatedly used by Jesus referring to the Holy Scriptures. In Luke 24:27 Jesus reminded His disciples he was the subject even of Old Testament Scriptures: "And beginning at Moses and all the prophets, he expounded unto them in all the scriptures the things concerning himself." Jesus taught in Mark 12:24 that ignorance of scriptures leads to error: "24And Jesus answering said unto them. Do ye not therefore err, because ye know not the scriptures, neither the power of God?"

Third, Christ practiced the Holy Scriptures by bearing the reproach for our sins: "....The reproaches of them that reproached thee fell on me." He was quoting Psalm 69:9: "9For the zeal of thine house hath eaten me up; and the reproaches of them that reproached thee are fallen upon me." One setting for the fulfillment of this scripture was the annual Passover at the temple in Jerusalem. (1 Corinthians 5:7 reminds us that "Christ our passover is sacrificed for us.") He came to die for our sins thereby fulfilling the Old Testament sacrificial system once for all.. "12Neither by the blood of goats and calves, but by his own blood he entered in once into the holy place, having obtained eternal redemption for us." (Hebrews 9:12) "12But this man, after he had offered one sacrifice for sins for ever, sat down on the right hand of God."

Read one fulfillment of this prophesy at the Jewish Passover in John 2:13-17. After Jesus made a whip and drove the money changers and animals out of the temple He said: "....Take these things hence; make not my Father's house an house of merchandise. 17And his disciples remembered that it was written, The zeal of thine house hath eaten me up." "For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost." (Luke 19:10). "....The Father sent the Son to be the Saviour of the world." (1 John 4:14). Pastor "B"

Three-year Bovine TB Risk Mitigation Project a success

The Michigan Department of Agriculture and Rural Development (MDARD), in collaboration with the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) Wildlife Services (WS), and four Michigan Conservation Districts (CDs) have successfully reached their three-year goal of protecting Michigan cattle farms in the highest risk areas for bovine Tuberculosis (TB).

The $3.6 million project is a combined effort between Michigan's cattlemen, local conservation districts, state and federal government agencies, and Michigan State University Extension to aid producers with their risk mitigation methods in northern lower Michigan.

"Wildlife Risk Mitigation Plans are required in order for farms to sell cattle without follow-up testing. These plans use fencing and other management techniques designed to keep wild white-tailed deer, which are known reservoirs for bovine TB, from contaminating feed and water sources on cattle farms in Northern Lower Michigan," said Dr. Rick Smith, MDARD's Wildlife Risk Mitigation Program (WRMP) Coordinator. "We were pleased to learn the Alpena Conservation District and staff received special recognition for their outstanding efforts in delivering the Wildlife Risk Mitigation Project," Smith said. "We could not have accomplished our goal of implementing the WRM Initiative on Michigan cattle farms without their help."

The Alpena Conservation District. (CD) and staff accepted the awards during the Michigan Association of Conservation Districts Annual Convention awards banquet on Dec. 8. Alpena Conservation District's Randall Mellberg Emily Sewell. TB Conservationists in the Alpena CD office, were specifically recognized for their outstanding contributions to the development and implementation of WRMP in the state.

"We're extremely appreciative of Randy, and Emily's contributions; and all those of Conservation District staff," Butchko, Pete said Michigan's USDA WS State Director. "Working together works."

Wildlife Risk Mitigation was an initiative of both USDA Wildlife Services and MDARD in early 2003. Pilot projects conducted by USDA's scientists on cervid facilities and cattle farms in northern Michigan found that tools such as fencing, hay storage units, and the use of dogs lowered the risk of disease transmission. MDARD began the official sign-up program in 2009, and since then nearly 900 cattle producers have participated in the Wildlife Risk Mitigation Project to assess their on-farm risks and complete biosecurity plans. Ninety-four percent have become risk mitigated.

In addition to completing risk assessments and biosecurity plans, Mellberg and Sewell have facilitated the construction and cost-sharing of 65 feed security hoop barns and a handful of fencing projects in Alpena, Alcona, Montmorency, and Presque Isle counties. To date, livestock producers have accessed more than $1.2 million in assistance funding, and have invested an additional $401,000 of personal funds in improvement to farm biosecurity.

Earlier in 2011, Michigan U.S. Senator Debbie Stabenow secured $1.5 million in funding for cattle producers in 11 counties (Alcona, Alpena, Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Crawford, Emmet, Montmorency, Oscoda, Otsego, and Presque Isle) in Northern Lower Peninsula through the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP). Producers match these funds with 25 percent of their own money.

Additionally, Kenneth Parsons, a Conservation Technical Assistance Initiative (CTAI) Specialist in the Alpena CD office; and Kenny Papes, a CTAI Engineer in the Otsego CD office, were recognized for their efforts to significantly increase the number of producers signing up for federal EQIP funding.

Parsons and Papes completed their work associated with the TB Initiative/EQIP sign-up under short deadlines. The efforts provided financial and technical assistance to cattle producers with the implementation of conservation practices and strategies designed to reduce the spread of Bovine TB. Enrollment in EQIP has helped cattle producers move toward becoming Risk Mitigated and in maintaining their market access.

Conservation practices funded with Bovine TB Initiative/EQIP include: brush management, cattle access control, cattle trails and walkways, fencing, forage harvest management, heavy use area protection, pasture and hayland planting, prescribed grazing, roof runoff structures, stream crossings, underground outlets, water pipelines, water tanks, waste facility cover, waste storage facilities, wells and windbreaks. All of the $1.5 million in funding was allocated; and 87 livestock producers' EQIP contracts were approved for implementation. Some conservation practices were completed in 2011 and others will be completed in 2012.

The 14,000 cattle producers in Michigan, which maintain 1.2 million beef and dairy animals, benefit from the Bovine TB Eradication and Wildlife Risk Mitigation Programs because transmission of the disease is prevented, thus allowing access to national and international markets. In 2011, 57 Lower Michigan counties joined the Upper Peninsula in obtaining Bovine TB-Free

IMPORTANT

During the past few years, low interest rates, war and uncertain stock market performance combined to push prices of gold and silver to their highest levels in 25 years. We have studied the investment and retail markets for decades, and in the past during times of economic uncertainty (which is deepening now), there have been dramatic price declines in many areas of the jewelry, gold and retail markets. Which is why this may be the best time in decades for you to sell for some of the highest prices ever.

Small business owners form Michigan Main Street Leadership Council

Job makers and small business owners across the state today announced the formation of the new Main Street Michigan Leadership Council, a steering committee that will work with lawmakers in Lansing to close the Internet sales tax loophole, level the playing field for local businesses on "main street" and protect Michigan jobs. The state House of Representatives is currently considering bipartisan House Bills 5004 and 5005 that would close the loophole and recognize that a sale is a sale is a sale. "Job makers are standing together across Michigan asking lawmakers to do the right thing and level the playing field for small businesses," said James P. Hallan, President and CEO of the Michigan Retailers Association, which represents 12,000 individual storefronts. "A sale is a sale is a sale but because of the Internet sales tax loophole, out-of-state online-only mega retailers like Amazon are able to sell products at a six percent discount, making it harder for local job makers to succeed. The Michigan Main Street Leadership Council believes the state's tax code should be fair and should no longer threaten Michigan jobs."

The transfer of the first of th

The Michigan Main Street Leadership Council is made up of small business owners and job makers from across the state, including: James

Association; Jamie Nye, Great Turtle Toys, Clarkston Mackinac Island: and Thomas "Bert" Weidner, Woodward Camera, Birmingham; Ron Estes, Associate General Counsel, Management Center Services, Birmingham; Barb Great Northern Stein, Trading Co., Rockford; Matt Norcross - McLean and Eakin Booksellers. Petoskey; Kim Volz - The Dive Shop, Flint; Sue Majerek - Majerek's, Niles; Gary Foote - Woodcraft of West Michigan, Grand Rapids; Tim Webster, Websters Pro-Shop, Gaylord and Petoskey; Bill Golden, Golden Shoes, Traverse City; Ken Vos, Gameroom Gallery, Holland; Candy Lancioni, Aunt Candy's Toy Company, Rockford; Lynn McDowell - McDowell's of Grand Ledge, Grand Ledge; and Carla Merrill, Norm

Hallan, Michigan Retailers

"At our stores we are fighting every day to make the sale, to provide jobs and to contribute to our communities," said Kim Volz, owner of the Dive Shop in Flint. "Every day we lose sales to shoppers who are able to purchase the item from an online retailer that does not collect Michigan's sales tax. The price is often the same, but the sales tax makes the difference. This is a fairness issue and we need to do something about

Henry Shoes, Owosso

When consumers buy a product online, Michigan law says the consumer must pay the same sales tax he or she would if buying the product from a store in person. Under Michigan's current sales tax collection system, out-of-state, onlineonly retailers are exploiting the massive legal loophole, allowing them to forgo collecting sales tax at the point of sale. Online-only retailers use this loophole to attract shoppers away from brickand-mortar businesses by using deceptively lower prices, since Michigan retailers must add - and collect — the 6-percent sales tax to the customer's bill. As a result, Main Street businesses are put at a significant competitive disadvantage that puts Michigan's business community at risk.

Last fall Representatives Eileen Kowall and Jim Ananich introduced the Michigan Main Street Fairness Act, a bipartisan legislative package that protects job makers across the state by closing the sales tax loophole putting Michigan businesses at risk.

To close the sales tax loophole the Michigan Main Street Fairness Act:

· Moves online-only retailers under the same sales tax collection laws under which Michigan brick-and-mortar businesses operate; and

· Expands the definition of "nexus" or "physical presence" to include retailers who conduct business through affiliate businesses in Michigan or own subsidiary companies in an attempt to avoid paying sales

According to a report by Lansing-based Public Sector Consultants, the sales tax loophole has a significant negative impact on job makers and the state's economy. The study found that closing the loophole would directly lead to the creation of as many as 1,600 new jobs, would increase investment in Michigan' economy in the form of sales at brick-andmortar retail outlets by as much as $126 million per vear and would save the state as much as $141.5 million in otherwise lost sales tax revenue from electronic remote sales in 2012 alone.

The Michigan Main Street Leadership Council will provide an organized voice in Lansing for retailers from across Michigan who last year formed the Michigan Alliance for Main Street Fairness, a coalition of hundreds of job makers calling for common-sense updates to Michigan's tax system to ensure there is a level playing field for both small businesses and online-only retailers concerning the collection of sales taxes. More information about the coalition can be found at www.standwithmainstreet.c om/michigan.

Seven competitors from Grayling qualified for the regional event and three moved on to the state meet, which is slated for March 18 at Mt. Pleasant Sacred Heart. Young racers complete Hanson Hills ski program

The Hanson Hills Race Team (HHRT) – a program that teaches ski racing to young people – recently completed its four-week season. The HHRT was sponsored by AuSable Family Dental and the Oppermann family, which has a long tradition of racing and volunteer work at Hanson Hills. They provided all the medals and free sweatshirts to participants. "The program is run by local volunteers with a background in ski racing who want to ensure young skiers get the opportunity to try racing at an early age," a Hanson Hills official said. "Getting a child on skis is the best way to make skiers for life, but getting them to run through gates is the way to make champions." Katie Olson, a former Grayling Viking ski racer, spearheaded the Sunday afternoon program. Kids were awarded weekly medals for 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place in their age divisions and champion medals for total overall performance.

Healthy Smiles - Happy Kids

Good Dental Habits Can be Fun if Taught Right

Overusing toothpaste and brushing too hard are common pitfalls among younger children. Parents with children under 6 years of age should brush their child's teeth because young children lack the manual dexterity required to brush teeth effectively.

Recent statistics point out that up to 73 percent of children use too much toothpaste. A pea-size amount of toothpaste is optimal since large amounts create foam and make it difficult for children to brush. Also, children should be taught to spit out toothpaste because habitually swallowing it can lead to a condition known as fluorosis in which spots caused by too much fluoride may appear on their teeth.

Brushing too hard can push the gums up and pose problems in preventing tooth decay. Since tooth decay occurs faster in children, parents need to take precautions to protect their youngsters' beautiful smiles.

Parents should also remember to put mouthwashes in a safe place. Children are easily attracted to minty smells and colorful mouthwash. The alcohol in mouthwashes can be harmful to children.

By playing a positive, active role in children's tooth brushing, parents are encouraging children to learn good habits and maintain good dental hygiene. To make the experience enjoyable, here are some tips:

- Place a proper "step-up stand" that allows the child to look over the sink counter.
- Allow the child to choose his/her toothbrush, especially for colors and/or themes.
- Select a toothbrush that has soft bristles - a hard toothbrush can cause gums to bleed.

Boyne pulls away in last seven minutes, wins JV game 41-33

by Caleb Casey Senior Staff Writer

Early in the fourth quarter, the two teams were separated by only one point, but the visiting Boyne City Ramblers outscored the Grayling Vikings 16-9 in the final seven minutes of regulation to win Thursday night's JV girls basketball game by a final score of 41-33.

The two squads combined for only nine points in the first period. Grayling scored its five with an inside shot by Taylor Nielson and a triple by Rachel Money.

Boyne City outscored Grayling 16-7 in the second quarter. The Vikings scored their seven with two jump shots by Jordan Tinker, one free throw from Maddie Nielson, and a put-back by

T. Nielson.

The Ramblers had a 20-12 advantage at halftime.

Grayling scored four with inside shots by Meagan Malm and Makayla Cragg. Boyne hit a jump shot. The Vikings scored the next two baskets with a jumper by Hailey Eames and an inside shot by M. Nielson.

Boyne led 22-20.

The Ramblers hit a threepointer to lead by five. Grayling scored the last basket of the third quarter — a jumper by Tinker — and Boyne City took a 25-22 edge into the fourth period.

Grayling scored first in the fourth quarter with a jump shot by Courtney Hill. With 7:17 remaining in regulation, Boyne led by one.

The Ramblers outscored Grayling 16-9 in the final

7:16 of the fourth quarter, hitting two three-pointers during that span and converting 6 of 7 shots from the free-throw line. The Vikings scored their last nine points on an inside shot by M. Nielson, a jumper by Money, a jump shot by Cragg, one free throw from Money, and another inside shot by M. Nielson.

Boyne City won by eight, 41-33.

Leading scorers for Grayling were: M. Nielson (7), Tinker (6), Money (6), T. Nielson (4), Cragg (4).

"The girls really did play a good game minus the second quarter. We win the game if you take out the second quarter, where we had too many turnovers and were outscored 16-7. For the most part, the girls are doing the right things, or at least they are really trying to, so I am very proud of them for that. We just need to put together a four quarter game," Coach Brooke Knight said.

On Wednesday, Grayling lost 40-14 at Traverse City St. Francis.

"We were down some players due to sickness and really struggled to get moving at the beginning of the game. It just wasn't our night and we had a tough time trying to put the ball in the basket," Coach Knight said

The Vikings (2-16 overall, 2-10 league) will finish their 2011-2012 season with a home game vs. East Jordan at 6 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 23.

Vikings fall to Boyne, St. Francis

Grayling High School's varsity girls basketball team lost league games at Traverse City St. Francis and Boyne City last week.

On Wednesday night, the Vikings fell 67-24 vs. the Gladiators at Traverse City St. Francis.

"We faced a very good St. Francis team that is very talented. We stayed with them through the early second quarter. At that point, our leading scorer, Jo Hamlin, suffered a (serious) knee injury. The game was stopped for quite a while as we tended to her. Our entire team is concerned for Jo," Coach Joe Powers said. "After the injury, St. Francis really put it to us, outscoring us 19-2 to end the half. We were not able to jump back in the game as St. Francis continued to fullcourt press us through the end of the third quarter. It was a difficult game on the road for us in many facets."

Hamlin had six points for GHS. Caitlin Prosser had four points and six rebounds.

"Caitlin had a solid game on the boards for us, collecting six rebounds against an extremely athletic team. She also was perfect from the line, going 4 for 4," Coach Powers said.

On Friday, Grayling lost 51-40 vs. the Ramblers at Boyne City.

"Boyne City led almost the entire game and we struggled with our turnovers. Our number of turnovers really determined the outcome of the game. We struggled to score and we struggled to get into a Hannah Haven had 10 points for GHS. Prosser had seven points, nine rebounds, and three blocks.

"We are a very young team and with losing our leading scorer for the season we have to adjust and modify our game. Playing on the road is always more challenging than being on our home court. We will hit the practice court and our girls are tough. They will continue to work hard and we want to improve each day," Coach Powers said.

The Vikings (7-11 overall, 3-9 league) will end their 2012 regular season with a conference game at East Jordan on Friday, Feb. 24.
